

Alberta Jam Area / The Left Wing

In the Late fall of 2015 there were two new routes added to the this area in the North Ghost expanding options for climbers to make for a full day exploring some of the classic routes offered at this impressive venue. This update is meant to be used with the latest guide Ghost River Rock Climbs which describes this cliff sector on pages 412-415.

The approach pitch also had a ring bolt rappel anchor added to speed climber's escaping the upper platform at the end of the day. Rappelling off directly towards the river from this station a full 35 m where as descending down the approach corner requires a 55 m rappel to reach the deck.

The two newest additions to this sector are located on what is being called the Left Wing which is accessed by the easy scramble up to the base of the Recky Route then traversing leftward for 20 m along a good ledge to just before a skinny spruce tree to reach a two-bolt station to belay. Both of these new climbs leave from this base station. Good Intentions is the left hand line and 17 Year Itch is the straight up version.

Good Intentions ** M-5.10c/d, 28 m, gear to 2"

Andy Genereux, October 2015

From the bolted belay steep climbing works up and left to surmount a devious bulge (crux). Excellent face climbing leads to a small ledge. Move up past a bolt to finish in a seam at ring bolts on top.

17 Year Itch ** M-5.11a, 28 m, gear to 3.5"

Andy Genereux, October 2015

Climb steeply above the base belay to gain a seam leading to a shallow left facing corner. Climb the corner to the top with ringbolts to belay.
